

How to Manage Your Loss of Appetite

Loss of appetite is when you do not have feelings of hunger or interest in food. You may lose weight and not be strong enough for your cancer treatments if you are not able to eat. This handout offers information on what you can do to manage your loss of appetite.

What you can do to manage your loss of appetite

1. Make every bite count

- Choose foods high in calories and protein. See examples of meal ideas high in calories and protein on pages 2 and 3 of this handout.
- Drink fluids high in calories (examples: homemade smoothies, milkshakes, Ensure® Plus, Boost® Plus, Carnation Breakfast Essentials®) if you do not feel like eating food.
- Eat less foods low in calories. This includes salads and fluids (examples: water, tea or coffee). These foods can make you feel full quickly.
- Do not choose foods with reduced fats (examples: light or low fat).

2. Timing of your meals

- Eat a small amount of food every 2 hours. Do this even if you do not feel hungry.
- Eat the largest meal of the day when you feel hungry (even if this is at breakfast time).
- Take snacks with you whenever you leave home.

3. What should I eat?

- Choose foods that taste good to you, even if this means eating the same foods every day.
- Eating a variety of foods may help you feel more interested in eating.
- Eat foods that are cold or at room temperature if you do not feel like eating a hot meal.
- Include a protein rich food or liquid at every meal and snack. This includes milk, buttermilk, yogurt drinks, kefir and nutritional supplements (examples: Boost® High Protein or Ensure® Protein Max).

4. Make your mealtime enjoyable

- Use smaller plates or bowls for your meals.
- Use herbs and seasonings to enhance the flavour of your food.
- Choose a quiet and relaxing location to eat your meals.
- Eat with other people such as your family members and friends.
- Ask a family member or friend to help prepare meals or snacks for you.
- Buy prepared foods or consider a meal service if it is difficult (hard) for you to prepare meals.
- Make extra meals and freeze them to use at another time.
- Take a walk outdoors to get some fresh air and exercise before meal times. This may help you feel hungry.
