

Mesothelioma and Options for Compensation

Being diagnosed with mesothelioma can be overwhelming. You may be eligible for compensation if you were exposed to asbestos. This handout offers you information about the compensation available.

Depending on the type of asbestos exposure you may be able to apply for compensation from Workplace Safety and Insurance Board, Compensation Trust Funds or Veterans Affairs Canada.

You may be eligible for compensation even if:

- You were exposed at work
- You were exposed at home
- You were self employed
- Your employer is no longer in business
- Your exposure happened outside of Canada (compensation may be available in the country where the exposure happened)

Workers' Compensation

The Workplace Safety and Insurance Board (WSIB) provides workers' compensation. If you were exposed to asbestos in your workplace, you may qualify for compensation from WSIB. You and your healthcare team need to file a claim.

If your claim is accepted, you, your spouse and children may receive:

- Money to make up for your loss of income
- Benefits to cover your healthcare costs
- Counselling for you and your family
- Survivor payments for your spouse or dependents
- Benefits to help with costs of transportation or funeral expenses

How to file a claim:

2. Have your healthcare team complete the WSIB Health Professional's Report (Form 8) found at wsib.ca/en/healthcareforms

If you file a claim with WSIB you or your family will not be able to get compensation from other sources. Contact the WSIB for more information,.

Compensation Trust Funds

Compensation Trust Funds provide compensation to people with mesothelioma from exposure to asbestos. These Trust Funds were created by former manufacturers and suppliers of asbestos.

What you need to know about these Trust Funds

- No court case is needed.
- There may be legal fees. It is important to talk with your lawyer about this.
- You may receive compensation from more than 1 Trust Fund. This depends on your work history and the products you were exposed to.
- You may make a claim if you were exposed outside of your workplace or do not have workers' compensation coverage (i.e., home renovations, washing the clothing of another person or living in the home of someone who was exposed to asbestos, if you were self-employed, or you are the family member of someone who has died from mesothelioma)

If you file a claim through Trust Funds you or your family will not be able to get compensation from other sources. For more information, contact a lawyer who specializes in mesothelioma claims. See the list on page 3.
